Get Creative with Adobe Resources for Educators

Adobe's mission is to inspire and empower the next generation to be lifelong creators. They support educators in every subject and discipline as they transform teaching and learning to help students think, collaborate, create, and communicate in new ways.

In our Adobe Certified Professional Academy webinar, the Adobe Education team shared free resources to help educators and students foster creative skills and digital literacy.

Catch the Final ESB Academy Webinar: ESB in Action

New to teaching entrepreneurship? Wondering how to get started? In our final session, February 23rd at 4 PM ET, we're bringing in veteran teacher Jennifer Stubblefield to have talk about bringing ESB into her classroom, what resources she leveraged, how her students responded, and how her students use their entrepreneurship skills after graduating. You'll be inspired by these stories of success, trust us.

This Week, On the Podcast

Creating an Entrepreneurship Ecosystem with Amber Ravenscroft and Joe Kapp

National Entrepreneurship Week is happening now! In this week's podcast episode, we talk about what's happening for National Entrepreneurship Week 2022, how states and countries can prioritize entrepreneurship, and why you don't need to start your own business to be an entrepreneur. If you're interested in bringing creativity, grit, and workforce-ready skills to your classroom, then you need to give this one a listen.

New Exam Format Coming for the Autodesk Certified User (ACU) Fusion 360 Exam

The ACU Fusion 360 exam is changing from a live-in-the-app format to a selective response format. To ensure this new format meets industry expectations and provides a quality experience to candidates, we're looking for U.S. high school teachers to volunteer their students to take a beta version of the exam.

The beta exam will give K-12 students the opportunity to test their knowledge of the concepts and skills they'll need to take the existing Autodesk Fusion 360 exam.
